

New Yorkers Return to Home Town Defeated by Georgetown Basketball Team

N. Y. UNIVERSITY RETURNS TO HOME TOWN, DEFEATED

Georgetown Basketball Team Wins By Large Margin.

VISITORS COMMENCE WITH RAPID TACTICS

Schlosser and Heiskell Feature Game By Fast Team Work.

New York University's basketball team left for its home town this morning after having been defeated by Georgetown's goal shooters by a 3 to 2 score.

The visitors started the contest by rapid tactics, which threatened to take the local quint off its feet, but after the first five minutes of play the latter became used to the cadence and proved equal to the attack of the New Yorkers.

During the initial ten minutes of the contest but three points were scored by the athletes from Gotham and two points by Georgetown. Before the first period was completed, however, the Blue and Gray toasters had taken the lead by a single point, the score at that time being 5 to 4. During the last half Georgetown took a large lead, it scoring fourteen points in that period to three by New York University.

Schlosser did some spectacular goal throwing from foul in the final period, he having scored four baskets on penalties affixed on the visiting quint. Heiskell's dribbling was probably the best seen in a local gymnasium this season, he having complete control of the ball in many runs down the gymnasium. Waldron won the admiration of the many spectators as well as his opponents by a long shot from the middle of the floor, which resulted in a basket for his team.

Later in the game Waldron was substituted at left forward for Hollander, and the former caged a clever basket, which was followed by scores by Schlosser. This ended the scoring for Georgetown, and the remaining few minutes of the game was filled with hard and clever work by both sides.

Moore, the speedy left guard of the New York University's team, probably performed best for the home team in last night's contest, his teamwork and scoring of goals from foul line having been spectacular at all times.

Heart Disease Is Not Usual Cause of Death

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 16.—After a prolonged investigation, Dr. William G. Anderson, director of the Yale University gymnasium, says in a statement that athletes live longer than persons who take no part in sports. He finds that heart disease is not the usual cause of athletes' death, contrary to the general opinion. The majority of them are victims of lung trouble, he says, but he does not attribute this to the violent exercises they engage in.

WILL GIVE MANY PITCHERS CHANCE

Cub Pilot Orders That Twirlers Now on Roster Be Sent on Spring Training Trip—Squad Includes Sixteen Men.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Frank Chance is out looking for a formidable staff of nine-inning pitchers, capable of paying the trail to a National League championship. In a letter to President Murphy, which was made public last night by the West Side magnate, the maker of champs issued instructions to hold all the flinging talent now on the squad for fear of losing without trial some individual who might fill the bill when the race becomes a stern affair.

The fact that Chance is worrying over the acquisition of a bunch of star flinging material is of no consequence, but with the announcement that he intends to take sixteen twirling candidates to the New Orleans camp he is establishing precedent and also cutting out for himself a gigantic task in the way of sifting out the good, fair, and poor talent.

Recruits Enrolled.
Chance's reasons for wishing to hold all the men now in line is the result of the many assurances he has received of the ability of the recruits to make good. Almost without exception the newcomers were stars in the respective leagues last season, and the Cub pilot naturally does not relish losing any of the youngsters before looking them over and deciding whether or not they are worth retaining.

The experiences of last season, when the entire staff with the exception of Brown went to pieces and just about tossed off a pennant, are partly responsible for Chance's determination not to run a single risk.

Of the sixteen men on the roster at this writing seven are veterans of one year or more. A few of the others boast of brief stays at the House of Chance and some have yet to even get a glimpse of Chicago's skyline. The list, as far as size is concerned, is far in excess of any of previous years, but, in the words of Murphy, conditions warrant it, and even this is remote. As regards Brown, it is still a certainty that he has been in conference with Ross Murphy, and while he may not start South with the team it is better than an even bet that he will answer the call for action April 11.

Big List of Talent.
The youngsters of promise who have yet to bow before Chicago's fabled arm are: Northrup, Ed. Moore, L. A. Dressen, James Nagle, James Lavender, and "Lefty" Harrington. The individuals picked up here and there last fall are Larry Cheney, Charley Smith, and Clarence Marshall. The "vets" are Brown, Reulbach, Cole, Moline, Tommy, Ritchie, and Richter. From this small army of priceless talent Chance must select the "corps of 1912."

One feature of the elimination process will be the time devoted to southpaw artists. Last season the Cubs managed to work through the campaign without the assistance of this variety of athletes, but the lesson was somewhat costly, so this spring no effort will be spared to develop one and possibly two reliable port-side heavies. Three of them are now enrolled—Harrington, Nidle and Dressen. The former two look to be the goods, and especially Nidle, who may become a gent of the Marquand type.

Nagle was obtained from the Newark club of the International League, where he made a name for himself. His experience in the game covers five years, and this will be his second trip to the majors. The Giants having had him for a while last year, Dressen is a youngster from Salt Lake City, who started out to play first base and then turned to the mound, but it likely that he will be shot to a minor club.

McFarland was secured recently from Louisville, which club purchased him from Lynn of the New England League. It seems that he is destined for Jack Pfeister's shoes.

Two Sure of Berths.
Of the new men, Cheney and Smith look good. The former is an exponent of the "split ball" and one of considerable proportions. His record with the Louisville club last season was far better than that of O'Toole, the saint, $22,500 leant, and it will be a sad disappointment if he fails to outshine his race. In his first game as a Cub last fall Cheney played hob for seven innings by holding his opponents helpless, only to be forced off the hill when a scorching drive smashed his little finger and kept him on the bench for the remainder of the season.

Smith has been through the big league mill before in the role of star twirler for the Boston and Washington American League clubs, and he is far from being "all in," as was shown in his games last September and October. Northrup and Moore are uncertain, but their minor league records are worthy of mention. Northrup worked for the Reading, Pa., club last year, and those who witnessed his performance applied a brilliant future for the lad. Moore comes from the Youngstown, Ohio, club, which asked the sum of $2,500 for his services. As for Lavender, it might be said that he is the best looking youngster seen in the East for many days.

One thing is certain, and this is that these recruits appear good enough to replace some of the older talent when Chance gets ready to yield the prize knife. Several twirlers were of little value to the club last year, especially Richter, Tony, and Moline, but "jobs" will be at a premium this spring, and Chance will most likely recall the season of 1911 when the squad must be cut to twenty-five members exclusive of the manager.

Major Combine to Head Off Team At Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 16.—The new Columbian Baseball League, organized at St. Louis Monday, is likely to get a body blow from Detroit. John Rossink, who applied for and received a franchise for Detroit, probably will throw it up in order to book exhibition games with National League teams for Sundays when the Tigers are abroad. Rossink tried to do this last year, but President Navin upheld his rights under the national agreement to block the move. It is understood that this year he has decided to permit games that do not conflict with the Detroit team. President Roberts of Brooklyn already has signified a willingness to have his team stop off en route east or west or come over from Pittsburgh some Sunday when playing a series there.

Asylum Attendants To Bandage Houdini

Houdini, the hand-off king, who is appearing at every performance at the Gayety Theater this week, will tackle the supreme test of his career tonight, when attendants from the insane asylum will bandage his hands with sheets as his sides, roll him in a number of large sheets, and then with linen bandages fasten him to a hospital bed.

Then they will pour twenty buckets of water on him to shrink the knots. The attempt to escape must take place in full view of the audience.

McFarland In Draw.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 16.—Surprise is being expressed today of Packey McFarland's failure to win from Eddie Murphy, the Boston lightweight. Aggressiveness would have given Murphy a shade on the Chicago boxer. Fans present say it was a good draw.

PREPS WILL PLAY DELANCEY SCHOOL QUINT SATURDAY

Quakers Have Two Games Scheduled Here This Week.

Georgetown Preparatory School basketball team will play the Delancey School of Philadelphia, next Saturday evening in the Ryan Gymnasium, on the heights, if the plans made by Manager Partridge, of West End lads, do not miscarry.

The Quaker City five comes to the Capital City on Saturday to line up against the basket tossers of the Army and Navy Prep School in the afternoon, and the management of the Philadelphia aggregation has assured Partridge that the visitors will remain in the city until Sunday to oppose the Blue and Gray youngsters on the Hilltop floor Saturday evening.

If the game is played a grand struggle should be the result, for the Delancey School quint is reputed as being big and fast, while the G. U. Preps are second to none in local scholastic circles. The Sleepy City team has made an enviable record so far this season and is ranked among the leading exponents of great winter game in the Pennsylvania schools, being a claimant for championship honors in Philadelphia scholastic circles.

Clyde Milan Selected As All-Star Substitute

Tommy Connolly, American League umpire, has followed the example of others and picked his list of "greats."

Classiest pitcher—"Chief" Bender. Best "waller"—Harry Hooper. Best all-around player—Hal Chase. Best all-around player—Ty Cobb. All-American League team—Oscar Shogren, catcher; "Chief" Bender and Ed Walsh, pitchers; Hal Chase, first base; Eddie Collins, second base; Jack Barry, shortstop; Frank Baker, third base; Crawford, Speaker and Cobb, outfielders.

To Play In St. Louis.

Next Thanksgiving Day the Holy Cross varsity eleven will meet St. Louis University at St. Louis, being the longest trip ever undertaken by a Holy Cross team.

BOB THAYER'S SPORTING GOSSIP

"EVERY KNOCK IS A BOOST."

More war at Juarez.

The American League's refusal to agree with the National League as to the waiver rule may be taken with a smile by the fans. Unless he is blowing loudly on the bugle, Ban Johnson does not look the part of militant leader of a militant organization. He is a stickler for the proprieties, and now that they have been cared for, look for him to get together with his foes of the other league.

Rob Roy Mackey still challenging.

Georgetown's basketball five had little difficulty in defeating New York University at the Armory. At least basketball is a "home" game, all the advantage of the content being with the home team. Georgetown's two games with Virginia this season prove this assertion to the letter.

Where's Cassaway's team?

Ed Chapman, Georgetown's relay runner, is incorrect if he thinks he received a "raw deal" concerning his performance in Boston, at least in the local papers. Chapman, Davis, and Martin were all said to have run well against the speedy men of Holy Cross.

Waldron has class.

Georgetown meet promising.

Now that the outlaws have held their Cleveland meeting we may expect something more definite concerning the plans for the franchises in Washington. Thus far not a single hall player of real merit has been signed, and if the U. S. League is to be anything more than a rough dream it is up to the promoters to get busy without further delay.

Ralph will play pool.

Manager Jung, who looks after the interests of Americans, said last night that he is already planning on another big wrestling tournament for Baltimore, and then a drawback in the proposition of getting a hall. Crowds at the matches in Baltimore have continued to increase until no theater is large enough, and Jung is now thinking of leasing the Fifth Regiment armory for his next show.

Griffith and Ward in Agreement As to Their Method of Procedure

John M. Ward, the veteran player, now president of the Boston National League club, is making himself strong with the Hub fans by his aggressive attitude. He declares that using Boston as a dumping ground for old and worn-out veterans is done, and that from now on he will be in the field for live ones. Let's see, isn't that about the attitude of one Clark Calver Griffith?
